

Across

2. An ad-hoc network made up of bluetooth enabled devices such as mobile phones, PDAs or laptop computers.
3. A bit can be either on or off which can be represented as a 1 or a 0.
5. Software which requires you to pay a fee to the distributor after a certain period of time.
9. A host is an intelligent node on a network.
11. A protocol which provides a universal open standard for bringing Internet content to mobile phones.
12. A protocol for client /server email operation.
13. An Octet is an 8 bit number. IP addresses consist of 4 octets.
15. A trojan is a piece of software on a user's machine which allows someone else to access data on that machine.
19. Software which is distributed free by the programmer.
20. Software agents which are able to search for new web pages and which create indexes of the contents of these pages.
21. Electronic bulletin boards for text based discussion on any subject.
22. Areas on the Internet where users can communicate using text messages in real time.

Down

1. Malicious code which has been inserted into a host program in order to cause damage to a computer system.
2. A malicious program which propagates itself over a network in order to cause damage to computer systems.
4. An agreed set of rules for communicating.
6. A header is the control information which is added to the beginning of a transmitted message or packet.
7. A network of personal devices networked using the Bluetooth wireless technology.
8. UDP allows an application program on one machine to send a Datagram to an application program on another.
9. A secure version of the HTTP protocol used for e-commerce.
10. A term used to describe electronic junk mail.
14. A wireless networking protocol which allows devices to connect together to provide services like Internet access.
15. Used in an HTML document to give information to a browser about how to display the content of the page.
16. A checksum is the result of adding the number of bits in a block of data to be transmitted.
17. A datagram is an Internet Protocol (IP) packet.
18. A network is one or more computers connected together in a way which allows them to communicate or share data.